The Birdshooting:

Rock Pigeons and Doves - Rock Pigeons and Doves are normally shot in the mornings and afternoons as they come in, to feed on harvested corn and sunflower fields. Rock pigeons are rated by world shooters as one of the most sporting birds on the planet and their ability to change direction in mid-flight makes them an extremely worthy quarry.

Walked up Greywing Francolin - The Greywing Francolin or Partridge is considered by many to be one of the finest upland gamebirds and is often referred in the same sentence as 'Scottish Red Grouse' in terms of the sport they provide. A lot of hard walking and well-trained English Pointers are required to shoot Greywing and can sometimes be in windy and cold conditions, so a state of good fitness, good health and a pair of good boots is a pre-requisite.

Geese & Ducks - South Africa boasts the largest Goose in the world, the Spurwing, with ganders often exceeding the 20lb mark, making it a remarkable bird to shoot. Together with the cunning smaller Egyptian Goose, they are shot out of dry land pit blinds or standing blinds, over decoys, either first thing in the morning or last thing in the evening. Numerous Duck and Teal species are shot from grass blinds at the edge of ponds and marshes. While on some occasions flighted Duck are shot in wetlands, our main method is to shoot them over decoys.

Driven Guineafowl – Guineafowl are often cursed and admired in the same breath by those who shoot them. Extremely wary, a flock of guineas prefer to run before flying when disturbed. But when they do take flight and are driven over the waiting guns, the shooting is spectacular, as well as fast and furious to say the least. If the flock can be fragmented and mixed with Francolin and Spurfowl, the birds tend to come out in small groups and offer extended shooting over the guns.

Terms & Conditions:

We need a minimum of 6 guns for this special trip. At the time of booking, a 50% deposit is required to confirm dates. Balance shall be paid 90 days before the shooting.
